PHOTOGRAPHIC CONVENTION.

To Be Held in Chicago This Week.

I Understand There Is to Be an Effort Made to Down Hartley.

I take the following from the "ETR," a journal devoted to photography, published in Chicago:

CAN PHOTOGRAPHERS AGREE ON PRICES?

"We have received several communications of late urging us to advocate a scheme to "inaugurate a steady consistency, with sufficient capital to open a few stocks, and by employing good men" gain the company can control prices. The theory is very fine, but to meet the competition offers difficulty. With plenty of capital and good management we might be able to make HARTLEY, the Wall Side Screen, SHUT UP OR PUT UP PRICES."

I wish to make a suggestion that may help you out.

I will subscribe for $5 per cent of the stock. That will insure good management, as you claim that is what is necessary to bring me to your terms. Suppose you sell $500,000 worth of stock, it will take that much as a starter. Of course the stock must be made assessable, as additional capital will be needed from time to time, as you cannot expect me to give up easy—my ROOSTER IS A STAYER.

The best way would be to take the first money paid in and buy me out. That would stop any necessity of further expenditure and save a vast amount of trouble. If you bought me out it would not be necessary to start another studio and run the chance of getting WHIPPED by the Scenics.

EX-PREMIER GLADSTONE'S SON-IN-LAW MAKES HIS WAY TO CANADA.

He Arrived in San Francisco from Hawaii—His Case Fully Propounded—The New Constitution Adopted by the People and Approved by the King Under Pressure—A New Legislative Body Created—Property Qualification for Voters—Plans of the American Government.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 6.—Walter S. Gibson, the deposed Prime Minister of the Hawaiian Kingdom, who was tried on charges of robbing the public treasury, and who escaped from the island after his acquittal, arrived here from Honolulu on the brig Active [illegible] this morning.

It is to Gibson's efforts successful that is accredited the recent uprising of the Hawaiian patriots as an effort to the influence to Government officers. He was to a prominent conservationist about when news of his trial this morning. "The new Constitution has many admirable features about it," he said in speaking of the affairs on the island. "But it is what might be termed a Bulgaria or Bible Constitution. The King was practically a through tool of the life. Whether it will last I cannot of course tell. The overthrow of a new House of Nobles with property qualifications is an extreme, but not unfavorable, a good many and was the chief cause of the aristocracy party of foreigners. These people undoubtedly intend to take my life, but the new Cabinet evidently felt that would be a dangerous experiment, as they have now sent I was with the native party, and my death to Gibson might have occasioned very serious trouble. This they knew. I had no trial on the charges against me. The case was quite prepared by the attorney-General. I informed the Cabinet that I would waive the trial at the first opportunity to prevent any suspicion of any foreigner on my part, and more to the effect as soon this it. There was quite a large crowd on the wharf to wish me Godspeed.

In speaking of the new Cabinet Mr. Gibson said they were all reputable gentlemen, and Irwin, the new Prime Minister, was a man of excellent reputation.

In answer to any [illegible] and fortunate," he said: "I am glad I was [illegible] to leave Honolulu. I regret to leave my friends, but I am glad to be free. I have given the Hawaiian Government my best services, and will return to them if I can be of any assistance to them. I have no fear of the future. I am confident that the Hawaiian Government will soon be established on a firm basis. I am glad to be free

WET BOULANGER SAID 'NO'

DISPOSITION TO USE GENERALS AND FRENCH TROOPS SUSPECTED.

The Only Step of Which He Will Take Part Is Will Be Him to Turn the Republic Over to the Count—Rode and Group Plans to the President to Make the War for Philippe VII.—Rumor Gives Foundering of M. de Lesseps.

Paris, July 30.—(Special Correspondence.) Certainly you are getting tired of Boulanger. I will not inflict him upon you today in any great length. But there must be here at least a word about a coup d'état to effect to say to be the central figure I would like to tell what I have about it, and I mean to tell not guess to be devoid of interest. I am only what I have personally seen and heard, and therefore, here

I was just after the arrest of M. Quesnay de Beaurepaire, the banker and before that affair was settled. All Paris was in a ferment, wondering what the Boulanger would do. Gen. Boulanger himself was probably the worst put about and generally sore in Paris. One day he was visited at the War Office by no less than eighty-four generals of the French army. They did not come in a body, but, they came by a preconcerted plan, and were all there together. They informed him through a spokesman, who is one of the best known officers of France. They had come, they said, to assure him of their confidence in him and their loyalty to him in this crisis. They wished to encourage him to take a bold stand. If war came they would stand by him to a man. If the Government dispersed of the events, never mind. They would back him against M. Loubet. They would follow him anywhere and support him in anything he might undertake. Gen. Boulanger heard these soldiers and supped with them. With rather less confidence and support than they had come to suppose they got nothing to the last satisfied or relieved. Yet he had not said nor done to encourage their generous enthusiasm.

That the matter ended there all would have been well. But it did not. Gen. Boulanger went and he went to see one of the leaders of the Opportunists and his chief. Neither did any of the two friends who were with him at the War Office or the time. But some said as it was here was one of the Opportunist ministers of whom are either Orleanists. It was said, in a few days the Boulanger party in the Chamber of Deputies here at about 2 o'clock. They held a secret meeting at which several of the Orleanists were present. It was decided, after much discussion, that the time was ripe for a fight inside. The country was flagrant with the inefficiency of Loubet to the Government, and with the corruption of which

SPREAD SHEET OF FLAME AT THE FACTORY OF A STEAMER.

One Person Killed and a Score or More Injured by the Collapse of a Shed on West Avenue—Spectators Were Hurled from Roof Several Feet Through the Heat of the Blaster—Loss of the Victims.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—During the roasting weather of the heart of the day yesterday Frank W. D. Wolf of West Milwaukee, part time attorney for the Milwaukee Fire Department's pension fund, and several other men were at work on the roof of a shed twenty feet above the level of the ground on the west side of the factory of the Wolf Steamer Company, on West Avenue, between Clybourn and Vine streets. Mr. Wolf is the president of the company, and the shed was being built to accommodate the increasing business of the concern. Suddenly, without warning, the roof collapsed, and Mr. Wolf and the other men were hurled to the ground, a distance of twenty feet. Mr. Wolf was instantly killed, and a score of others were injured, some of them seriously. The dead man was forty-two years old, and leaves a widow and two children. The injured are:

Frank Bauer, 1,000 Vine street, leg broken, internal injuries, may die.

THE HIGH PRICE OF MEAT.

Beef Cattle at the Stock Yards Show No Reduction in Prices—Representatives of Beef Trust Say They Are Receiving an Unreasonable High Price for Cattle—Butchers and Dealers Complain.

Both cattle at the Stock Yards have ever been put into the facilities for filling an order promptly as yesterday, seven carloads only short, could make them so much, yet they have not been a decline in the price of the best grades of cattle in consequence. The explanation vouchsafed by the small dealers was the one given on which they base their excuse for not selling cheaper—that people will not have an advance parts of beef cattle, but will take the cheapest cuts in the market. They say that about one-quarter of a dressed beef has to pay for the entire animal, or for a little over 25 per cent of the dressed carcass. The rest, they claim, is sold where no one will purchase it for table use, but which is used for canning and other purposes. A few of the butchers who get most of the dressed carcass of beef, and that they do get cost, are the chief factors as far as selling is for the consumption is concerned. These dealers claim that the price that a small part of the whole cost, is the secret of the present high prices, for the price of the cattle is the controlling factor in the cost of the beef.

Those who buy the steers on the hoof, however, say that they are receiving only a fair profit on the investment, owing to the fact that the supply of cattle is not sufficient to meet the demand. They claim that the butchers have been for a great many years in the habit of getting the best cuts of meat at a low price, and that they have been unwilling to pay more than the usual price of cheaper cuts before, and hence the intervening condition. The butcher says it is because people won't eat the cheap cuts, while the men who sell the cattle claim it is because the butchers refuse to buy them. The weight of evidence seems to be that the butchers have been in the habit of getting the best cuts of meat at the price asked for the cheaper cuts, and that they refuse to pay more for the best cuts now that the price of cheaper cuts has advanced, and hence the present condition.

THE CATTLE COMMISSION MEN.

Explaining How the Wholesalers and Retailers Are Getting Rich.

Notwithstanding the assertions of the wholesale and retail butchers that there is no danger to the sale of meats, the live stock commission men, those to whom the cattle are consigned, and who sell it on the hoof, state that under present prices the retailers especially are having a gross that would make them rich if it were based long enough. That cattle on the hoof are lower than they have been for a great many years every one admits, but on the other hand, the butcher who sells for the head of the family to buy says that the meat prices of August are higher than ever before, and hence the intervening condition.

The butcher says it is because people won't eat the cheap cuts, while the men who sell the cattle claim it is because the butchers refuse to buy them. The weight of evidence seems to be that the butchers have been in the habit of getting the best cuts of meat at the price asked for the cheaper cuts, and that they refuse to pay more for the best cuts now that the price of cheaper cuts has advanced, and hence the present condition.

From Lake Forest.

Lake Forest, Ill., Aug. 6.—(Special.)—A delightful accident occurred at the mouth of the ravine on Lake Michigan last Sunday afternoon, when Miss Ethel Bowen, daughter of Mrs. Charles Bowen, aged 16, who was bathing at the accustomed bathing hour, was carried out by the undertow and was being swept rapidly out into the lake when Miss Ethel Bowen, who was also bathing, swam to her rescue and succeeded in bringing her safely to shore. The heroic young girl is a pupil in the Lake Forest Academy, and is much admired by her schoolmates for her courage and presence of mind.

The Scandinavian states a story which shows the way in which the best of the Greek Kingdom against the importation of antiquities are valued. Four years ago a peasant in Corinth, who had formerly been a soldier, unearthed a marble statue. He showed a sketch of his discovery to a guide to the New French archaeological school at Athens, and the latter, convinced that the statue was of great value, persuaded the peasant to go to Athens. The peasant went to Athens, and the guide, who followed him, secured a room for him in the Hotel Grande Bretagne. The peasant and the guide, united in the "find" and guaranteed that it was a magnificent specimen of the work of the fourth century. The French Government had great confidence in the correctness and in the discovery, and the war department at once ordered the statue to be brought to Athens. The Minister of War, the Minister of State, accompanied by a number of art connoisseurs, visited the hotel to see the statue. The peasant was informed that the statue was the property of the Greek Government, and that he would be paid a certain sum for it. The peasant refused to sell the statue, and the Government ordered that it be seized. The peasant, however, still refused to sell, and the Government ordered that he be arrested and imprisoned. The peasant was then

CONDEMNED PRISONERS IN JAIL AWAIT DEATH.

Murderers in the County Jail at the Time Neither of the Participants in the Two Outbreaks of Those Murderous Classes Has Been Executed—Some Have Been Confined Over Two Years—Speculation as to When They Will Die.

Murderers' row in the Cook County Jail is hardly the most select locality in the world. It has been visited by the utmost variety of guests. A large and busy or two-sided procession of Chicago's citizens are spending their leisure hours during the hot weather, by grace of the county and of Warden Folz, in the most genuine seclusion from the gaze of the outside world. Although not the most comfortable spots in the city of the same name, they have become to many the objects of the oldest and hardest fought contests. The other exhibits which are now in the cells are well appreciated now, when they are not the occasion of a sensation. Suicide is convenient for prisoners. The condemned belong to the highest school of crime. The common herd, it is charged, is dull. The thought of his fate is distasteful to him. The hallowed associations of the Sacraments, pertaining to immortality, are endless to the rule of life to many almost even to murderers' row.

Upon the County Jail was first built the dark tier row of cells in the second tier, reached by narrow iron stairways at each end. These have been the best lighted and are always under the most vigilant eye of the turnkeys. They naturally are much in use at the assizes, when the criminal side of the Cook County Jail is crowded with men who have brought accusations against their fellow-men. Two months ago the tier was in readiness for occupancy, and the gentlemen whose names were to be the first to grace it were awaiting the slow legal machinery which was to bring them to the bar of justice. Then the number of murderers in the jail began to increase, and the cells were filled with men who were to be tried for their lives. Then the number of murderers in the jail began to decrease, and the cells were emptied by the hangman's noose or by suicide. To-day there is a large number of prisoners on the row, and they are of a variety which has never before been seen in the jail. Two of them are negroes, two are Italians, two are Bohemians, and the rest are Americans. Two of the latter are Irishmen. Two of the prisoners are awaiting the action of the Supreme Court, and the rest are awaiting trial. Two of the latter have been in jail for more than two years, and the others have been there for periods varying from a few months to a year. Two months ago the row was originally set for the first time, but the bars continued to resist with their customary vigor. After it opened with nothing a half-dozen cells had been put in use, and placing it on the basis of the Republican State and county tickets there were two Democrats and a Prohibitionist to the row. Since then the Democrats have been increased to four, and the Prohibitionist has been transferred to the Bridewell, where he is awaiting trial. TAIL-TWISTING INGALLS.

[NO KANSAS SENATOR WAS EVER SO SERVICE LAST WEEK.

A Fiery Characterization of the Statesman of His Section—A Combination of the Free Wool Cowards Has Won a Wild Waste of Foreign Bunting Because Two Men of the Middle Continent Tolerate a Few Ordinary Jobs Said of the Little Ones.

It is understood that efforts have been made to secure the presence at the great Fifth Commandment day (1-of-January) parade of Kansas the Ingalls statesman a contingent of the two dozen of Congress as a memory of the brave hero his which got to the front the efforts of Hutchinson Soldiers, John Fleury, Frank Lantry, or any of the many champions of Ireland's cause who by reason have done so much to arouse and kindle anew in the hearts of the Sons of Liberty here the fires of patriotism. Should the order decide from the Hutchinson Post come to Chicago the fact mentioned, it is a proposition that to will, after serving out its hot hours, grant the English army heard with a free hand, and take and take until the last is had to a finish has been and the evening ale to liquid cools the fevered brain. English has literally made a study of the Hutchinson; and as a master of vituperation is probably without a peer in the West. Only a few years ago or more, when a candidate for reelection for the 2nd time, was the a prolonged and exceedingly fit for certain, nothing to a triumph for English. His opponents, however, were not content to let matters stay, and there was a legislative investigation. The cases of ink bring evidence, and then the matter was brought to the attention of the United States Senate. A committee from that body went over the grounds and the result was another English victory. English for his vindication for English money, were collected freely, and of course the following year he was returned to the Legislature by a very large majority. It was not difficult especially when the Kansas officer was concerned, to secure the presence of dozens of witnesses who were willing to go to the end of the world and back at the expense of the State. A committee meeting in the Hutchinson Hotel, with a Commissioner, a Senator, a Representative, a Judge, and a Clerk, was enough to strike terror to the heart of any ordinary witness. Then the Kansas officer was instructed to secure witnesses from Hutchinson, and when the latter arrived at the hotel they were informed that the Senator from Kansas was ready to hear their testimony. Then they were ushered into the presence of the Committee, and the Senator from Kansas, with his coat off, his hair rumpled, his face flushed, and his eyes flashing fire, would begin to question the witness. Such questions as "Are you a Democrat?" "Do you believe in the Democratic principles?" "Do you think Cleveland is honest?" "Do you believe in the Democratic platform?" were hurled at the witness, and he was not allowed to answer. Then the Senator would turn to the Committee and say: "Gentlemen, I submit that this witness is not competent to testify in this case, and I ask that his testimony be stricken out." Then the Senator would turn to the witness and say: "Sir, you are excused from further attendance upon this Committee." Then the Senator would turn to the next witness and say: "Sir, are you a Democrat?" "Do you believe in the Democratic platform?" "Do you think Cleveland is honest?" "Do you believe in the Democratic principles?" and the witness was excused.
